

Senate Approves Election Changes

A constitutional election will be held March 5 as a result of Senate action last Monday night.

Senators approved seven constitutional revisions by a unanimous vote, and the student body will have to approve the revisions by a two-thirds majority of those voting if they are to go into effect for the student body elections in March.

MAJOR PROVISIONS call for the election of the student body treasurer and for a change in eligibility requirements from the present three semesters residence at Wartburg to one semester.

The treasurer in the past has usually been a senior senator appointed by the other members of the Executive Committee.

Changing the residence requirement to one semester makes it possible for junior college graduates and other transfer students to run for student body offices. Other requirements that the candidates be a junior and have at least a 2.50 grade point would still stand.

DICK BUCHSTEINER, student body president, said that there was no definite decision yet as to whether the election would be held in convo or in the Union during the day. The ballot will probably contain an abbreviated form of the revisions, according to Buchsteiner.

Revisions are posted on the Senate bulletin board in the Union, and Buchsteiner encouraged students to look them over before voting.

"Constitutional changes are important," he commented.

The exact appearance of the ballot will be taken up at next Monday's meeting along with the setup of the student body election ballot and nomination procedures.

WHILE APPROVING the constitutional changes, the Senate also passed, by a near unanimous vote, changes in the bylaws which will set up the split-ticket system this year.

This will mean that there will be a separate slate of candidates for each of the four offices. Past procedure has been to have the runner-up in the presidential race be the vice president.

Senators also approved a revision that will require primaries if there are three or more candidates running for an office. The old setup did not require primaries unless there were five or more candidates.

The bylaws go into effect immediately and do not have to have a student body election.

FIVE NEW COMMITTEE members were approved by senators in other action Monday. All of the additions were freshmen, three additions being the new freshman senators.

Fresh president Mike Peich was appointed to Academic Life Committee, senator Linda Stull was appointed to the Student Welfare Committee and senator Richard Tietjen was added to the Social Activities Committee.

Other additions were Dan Litzer, Academic Life Committee, and Dennis Brown, Public Relations Committee. The other freshman senator, Kathy Piottter, was already a member of Social Activities Committee.

The Miss Waverly contest, sponsored by the Waverly Chamber of Commerce, will be held in the Chapel-auditorium May 11-12, according to Fred Dierks, student body vice president. He reported to senators that the Chamber hopes to have five Wartburg women entered.

Snow Weekend Approaches

By Nancy Keel

Plans formulate with a few changes taking place for next weekend's activities in conjunction with Snow Weekend, according to sophomore Mike Becker, chairman of the event.

The variety show on Friday will be composed of local talent as planned; but it will no longer be in co-operation with the Concert Band. Although a theme has not yet been chosen, the different acts will be tied together with one idea, according to sophomore Lora Froehlich, chairman of the variety show.

Sophomore Dale Fridley will emcee the show. Acts are still wanted that are not of a musical nature. Anyone interested should contact Miss Froehlich before Monday night.

During the show the winners of the beard-growing contest will be announced. The categories are "most caressable," "unique" and "nice try."

King and queen for the weekend's events will be voted on in Thursday's convocation. Any organization with a written constitution desiring to sponsor a king and queen should submit the names in writing to Mike Becker. The candidates must be juniors or seniors.

Representatives from all the conference schools have been invited to attend the events and will be presented during halftime of the Wartburg-Luther game Saturday night, related Becker.

A special invitation has been sent to Luther to attend the dance following the game. Junior Jim Tjaden will lead the "Knightbeats" instead of Ken Schneider as was previously announced.

The theme for the dance is "Cedar Valley Ski Lodge," and the price is $1 per couple and 65 cents single, according to sophomore Betty Kalkwarf, chairman of the dance.

Attire is informal for the entire evening. The committee would like students to wear sport clothes to the game as well as to the dance in order to save time.

Wrestling will also be included in the events for the weekend. Opening rounds will be held Friday evening and the consolation and final rounds on Saturday afternoon.

Judging the snow sculpture Saturday will be Dr. James Fritschel, Music Department, Dr. Clifford Hanson, Philosophy Department and Miss Helen Wright, Art Department, according to senior Bill Dietz, chairman of snow sculpture.

Three trophies will be presented during the dance for those sculptures that have met the criteria of technique, originality and clearest motif.

Ice sculpture is being encouraged this year, according to Becker. Cost for such a project is not as much as was thought. The Snow Weekend Committee is also planning to make the letters "Snow Weekend" in the area in front of Luther Hall.

As a parting appeal, the committee would like everyone to "pray for snow."

Whoops

DOWN GOES ANOTHER one. At least the Wartburg campus has a coat of ice in preparation for Snow Weekend, but freshmen Bill Tufford and Cheryl Gunderson hope for a snowfall to make the activities a success.

Pres. News Conference Set Tuesday

The first in what may be a regular series of presidential news conferences will be held by Pres. C. H. Becker Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. in the Chapel-auditorium.

The purpose of these conferences is to enable students to have an opportunity to raise questions concerning college affairs.

Idea for the conference came from Alumni Director Robert Gremmels, who was moderator of the open forum convocation.

"The idea grew out of the open forum convocation when it became apparent there was a need for this type of thing to adequately answer student questions," stated Gremmels.

The format is to be much like that of President Kennedy's news conferences, except for the formal opening statement. Gremmels will introduce Dr. Becker.

If the conference goes well and enough interest is shown by the students, more will be held, according to Gremmels.

Project Attempts To Find Answers

By Linda Stull

Quietly and unobtrusively, a small group of students has undertaken and nearly completed an independent undergraduate research project.

Under the direction of Dr. W. G. Fruehling, Psychology Department, they have been compiling and analyzing data from the freshman class questionnaires. These questionnaires were given to all freshmen at the beginning of the year.

Jim Steinbrecher and Nelson Meyer, juniors, and Bill Mantei, sophomore, have been working on this project since the beginning of this year.

Each one has taken a separate area of the questionnaire for study. It is expected that the results gained will be used for future as well as present reference.

Steinbrecher has been working on the religious aspect of the questionnaire. This area is intended to find out what the Wartburg student believes.

It is part of a longitudinal study which will try to discover any relationships which exist between the religious beliefs of freshmen and seniors. Next year the questionnaire will be given to the senior class as a first attempt to correlate the two.

Also included in Steinbrecher's study is an evaluation of the present section of the questionnaire dealing with religion.

The basic problem which arises in the present section is that it doesn't measure the differences between liberal and conservative Christians. He is working with Dr. Robert Dell, Department of Religion, and Dr. Fruehling on revisions for it.

Meyer's chief concern has been with students who dropped out of last year's freshman class. The total number was 90. He is comparing the results of the questionnaires these students filled out with the results of the entire class.

It is hoped that this might help in determining the contributing factors leading to dropouts. In this way, the college might be able to eliminate potential dropouts or help them while they are here, before they drop out.

Mantei was concerned with the questionnaires of this year's entire freshman class. He compiled all of the data from them and set up percentages and statistics. Most of the information gathered in this area can be used as ground work for other areas of research.

An example of this kind of thing might be that in this year's freshman class there are twice as many females as males from the top quarter of their graduating classes. Facts like these can lead to further study in various areas.

Primary purpose of the project is to learn more about the Wartburg student, according to Meyer, Mantei and Steinbrecher.

Dr. Fruehling stated that he was very well pleased with the time and effort these students have put into the project. They will report to the Curriculum Committee at the end of the month with their findings.

It is emphasized that all of the results of the project will be made public so that students will have an opportunity to see them, according to Dr. Fruehling.

The Fifth Finger

Imagine a hand — a five-fingered hand.
Let finger number one represent the faculty; number two, the alumni; number three, the parents; number four, the community. What about finger number five?

Everybody's for Wartburg. During the current drive the faculty members have pledged or given the college around $50,000. Forty-five per cent of the alumni have pledged support while the average at a school such as State University of Iowa is around five per cent.

The Wartburg Parents Association has been formed within the past two years. Waverly businesses have already pledged around $50,000 with an equal amount expected next year, and the Waterloo-Cedar Falls Board of Associates has been organized. But what about finger number five?

No hand is much good without a thumb. No college is much good without students.

And student support of Wartburg is about the only thing that is really lacking. Everybody else is solidly sold on Wartburg. But what about finger number five?

"It's your involvement . . . that makes all the difference in the world to the outside supporters and the morale of the institution generally," commented Fred Carleton of Fund Fulfillment Corporation to Student Senate so long ago that he may not remember he said it.

He emphasized a point which hasn't been dwelt upon too much yet for this year's student body project, for which the campaign will begin within two weeks. His point was that foundations, with their vast sources of funds available, would support five-fingered hands.

Foundations aren't willing to throw their money out to hands without a thumb to grasp the money, no matter how much talking one does or how badly the funds might be needed. If all five fingers are pulling together, those who make the grants figure that this is a hand worth helping. It's hard to stop a five-fingered fist moving forward.

Around seven hundred Dana students were willing to make their student body a corporation so that they could borrow nearly $100,000 several years ago because they wanted an indoor swimming pool. They got their pool and are rapidly paying off the loan.

About 1,300 Luther students were enough for the college so that they could raise around $20,000 for the general fund.

But what about Wartburg's finger number five?

Last year's net receipts for the student body project totaled $884, including $290 from the carnival, the lowest total received since the early 1950's when the school was half as large. Three years ago the project netted $1,300.

In 1957 a project similar to this year's project — furnishing Vollmer Hall Lounge — got a tremendous response of approximately $2,115. At that time the enrollment was 807 students. This year's goal has idealistically been set at $3-5,000. Enrollment now is well over 1,100.

What about Wartburg's finger number five?

The student body project is especially significant this year because the amount raised will not only buy Union furnishings but might also be a swaying factor in whether Wartburg will get any foundation grants or not in the near future. Are Wartburg students willing to stop grumbling long enough to support their college?

Certainly, the furnishings will come from somewhere regardless, but it's a matter of whether Wartburg students want to play a significant role in Wartburg or not.

What about finger number five?

Pro Musica Rates Plaudits

By Verle Reinicke
Members of the student body and the Waverly community were witnesses to a most exhilarating experience this past Wednesday evening with the appearance of the New York Pro Musica.

The ensemble which numbered ten (six vocalists and four very versatile instrumentalists) plus its director, Noah Greenberg, performed in the Chapel-auditorium as the fifth program in the 1962-63 season of the Artist Series.

Music played was representative of the pre-Bach period from 1500-1650 in "London, Antwerp and Venice."

There is danger in going too far in the direction of praising the group, for there is little criterion, which is available as a basis for evaluating it since it is one of the few groups of its kind.

However, the danger of going the other direction is very slight for certainly everyone who was present at the performance would concur that any of the laudatory adjectives which could be used in describing the Pro Musica would be well-deserved.

To the casual music lover, the music performed may have seemed rather simple and easy to execute, but quite the contrary is true. Music of the period is extremely difficult to do correctly, capturing that which the composer meant to express.

But the Pro Musica was able to capture the flavor of the music so well that it kept the audience enchanted for the greater portion of two hours.

The versatility of the instrumentalists was astounding. One of the members was capable of playing four instruments, many of which are no longer used and are difficult to play. But each of these men had a superb mastery of each of the instruments which he played.

Paul Maynard demonstrated his ability at playing the harpsichord very well. The melodies simply flowed from his dexterous fingers, even in difficult passages, as though it were no effort whatsoever on his part.

The instruments were very interesting, ranging all the way from the recorders (early members of the flute family) and the krummhorn (an early reed instrument) to the schryare (a reed instrument), which sounded like a cross between an oboe and an English horn.

For the most part, the vocalists were excellent. As a group, they worked very well together, though at times the vibrato of certain individuals tended to stick out.

The blend of the group was excellent. One of the members would bring out or emphasize a figure or passage and immediately would blend back into the group to continue his line. Even so, the sound was that of a unit and not of several individuals, each trying to overpower the other.

Ray De Voll, tenor, was very pleasing. His was a clear, ringing tone with good diction, and he had an excellent control over his voice.

Equally inspiring was John Ferrante, counter-tenor. It was disappointing that he was not able to perform more as a soloist than he did.

Pro Musica was very well received. This is evidenced by the fact that few times has an Artist Series audience been so enthusiastic over a performing group as it was over this one.

It was unfortunate that the Chapel-auditorium could not have been filled to capacity, for the New York Pro Musica was truly a highlight in the Artist Series.

What The Indian Missed Due To A Silly Defeat

By Mike Sherer

Although the suggestion was made, it was not made abundantly clear in last week's column that the material for that article ("How to Tell Your Enemy") was taken from the December, 1962, issue of "Monthly Memo," publication of Iowa Young Republicans. The editor is the executive secretary of Iowa YR's (see first paragraph of last week's column).

DON'T GO NEAR THE PALEFACES

Oh, pity the Indian (American variety), consider his station: He could have used Higher Ed. emancipation;

If only he'd given the college a chance

He could have learned plenty on 'How to Advance';

He could have improved his uncultured condition

With audio-vis. and advanced composition;

He could have discovered what Indians are missing—

Real social life: Parties — and dating — and . . .

(well, there are some things you just can't print);

He could have had counseling, help and direction

("You can't be successful with such a complexion");

He could have discovered new cures for his ills

(the campus witch doctor's maroon and green pills);

He could have replaced those strange hours he was keeping

(Like, for instance, "The time after dark is for sleeping")

He could have, instead, found the magical key:

At college he'd stay up till one, two or three

(depending on grade point, whether 'B', 'C', or 'D');

He could have discovered a life without horses,

Where cars (which mean dates) help one fail all his courses;

He could have escaped from his crude Indian nation

And had a real taste of relaxing frustration;

He could have had chances to argue and fret

With people who otherwise he'd never have met;

The sum of which can't fail but point to these signs:

The men who fought Indians were out of their minds.

BV Foe Tonight

Tonight at 7:30 Wartburg's Knights will tip-off against Buena Vista.

In their first meeting of the season, at Storm Lake, the Beavers tipped the Knights 85-83 in overtime.

Last night Simpson took it on the chin at the hands of the Knight five 78-60.

The Redmen stepped out into a 6-1 lead before the Knights caught fire for 14 straight points. Wartburg built this up to 30-11 after 13 minutes, the Knight's largest lead of the game.

Shooting 50 per cent from the floor the first half, the Knights went into the locker room ahead 40-30.

Second half action was marred by loose play. The Redmen charged back to cut the lead to 48-43. However, the Knights again took charge and outscored Simpson the remainder of the game.

Big guns in the Wartburg attack were the front line trio of Al Buening, Lowell Syverson, each with 17 points, and Harold Shudlick with 14. Buening hauled down 23 rebounds, three short of the school record he established against Loras.

Tuesday night Wartburg's quintet will take the floor against State College of Iowa. SCI presently owns a 5-4 record in the North Central Conference.

Earlier this season, in the Tall Corn Tournament, Wartburg's cagers downed Cornell, which had previously defeated State College of Iowa in the first round.

Next Saturday, in the season finale for the 1962-63 season, the Knights will entertain Luther. Wartburg downed the Norsemen in their first meeting 74-67 in a hard-fought ball game at Calmar.

Luther, sixth place team in the standings, has not forgotten this defeat. Uppermost in their minds next Saturday night will be victory and revenge.

At the same time the Knights have a lot to gain with a win. Twin victories in basketball will go a long way in helping to return the "Axe" to Wartburg.

Last Tuesday the Knights journeyed to Mount Vernon and absorbed a 75-66 setback at the hands of Cornell.

Trailing by 7 points at the half, Wartburg came within one point but couldn't quite pull it out. Ed Truelson with 38 points was the high scorer for Cornell.

Two New Sports On IM Scene

Two intramural sports, wrestling and coed bowling, are scheduled to begin the first part of March.

Wrestling will be conducted during the week of March 11, and match dates will be announced in the March 9 issue of the Trumpet. Coed bowling will be held each Saturday at the Waverly Bowling Alley from 12:00 to 2:00 p.m. beginning March 9.

Sign up sheets for wrestling have been posted on each floor of Clinton, Grossmann and North Halls. The off-campus sign-up roster is posted in the student union along with the bowling sign-up sheet.

The deadline for signing up for bowling is March 4, and according to bowling chairman William Wachholz, the cost will be approximately $1 per person for the seven week season.

Anyone who desires to be captain of a team should contact Wachholz. Team members will be drafted from the sign up sheet, and a complete roster of team members will be posted in the student union on March 5.

The Knights had four men in double figures: Dick Ridout 16, Harold Shudlick 12, Dave Lange 13, and Dave Brunscheen with 10. Lowell Syverson, up from the freshmen squad, contributed 8 points.

On February 16 the cagers dropped a 71-66 decision to Upper Iowa University. The Knights led at the half 39-37 and maintained a lead until there were three minutes left.

Lange led all Wartburg scorers with 15 points. Other top scorers were Buening with 12, Medlang 11, Shudlick 10, and Ridout with 8.

Matmen End Season Sat.

Wartburg wrestlers will close out the season here this afternoon against the strong St. Olaf team.

The matmen were outclassed at Luther last Saturday by a 21-8 margin. Knight grapplers salvaged only two wins and a draw in the one-sided meet against the Norsemen which gave them a 2-7 dual meet record for the season.

Tim Tower, senior, who was beaten the first time this season at Winona last week, fought his way back into the winning circle by defeating 147 pound Bob Wellner, 10-0.

Duane Huth won again in the heavyweight class by handing Bruce MacLaren a 7-0 setback for the second Knight win.

In the 177 pound class Lincoln Johnson drew with Blake Beren of the strong Norse team.

Only two Wartburg grapplers were pinned in the one-sided meet. Norseman Leonard Erdahl threw Bernie Masker in 1:27 and Dave Schreiber pinned Wartburg's Cal Brown in the second period of the 167 pound match.

Dale Wehling, 123 pounder, lost to Luther's Davis Johnson 8-0 and Mike Tower fell to Doug Jacobson 6-0 in the 130 pound class.

At 137, Bill Smith gave Roger Kittleson a rough go, but lost his match 3-1 to the skilled Norseman.

Roger Damrow and Jim Mueller, two of the team's top matmen, will not wrestle again today. Damrow, 123 pounder, and Mueller, at 137, are both on the injury list.

Tentative wrestlers for the St. Olaf meet are:

Dale Wehling, 123.
Mike Tower, 130.
Bill Smith, 137.
Tim Tower, 147.
Bernie Masker, 157.
Lincoln Johnson, 177, and
Duane Huth, Hwt.

Three-Team Tie For 1st In IM Play

A three way tie for first place developed this week in intramural basketball's National League between Clinton I, Ketha and the Married Men.

Clinton I won its only game of the week on a forfeit from Grossman I, and Ketha split between a forfeit from Grossmann IIA and a 59-41 win over Vollmer.

Leon Schade led the Married Men to victory in two games by scoring 25 points in a 96-52 win over Off Campus I & Faculty and 18 points in a 91-48 victory over Grossmann II.

CLINTON BASEMENT moved from sixth to fourth place this week by defeating Vollmer 54-47 and Grossmann I 103-61. In the game with Grossmann I, Arlyn Ristau scored 28 points for Clinton Basement.

To complete National League play for the week, the combined Off Campus III & Grossmann III team defeated Off Campus I & Faculty 74-72 to move into a tie for second place with Clinton Basement.

Off Campus II defeated Clinton II 46-41 to capture the American League lead and sink Clinton II to fourth place.

Clinton III fell to Alpha Beta Gamma 49-42 and Cotta defeated North Hall 56-36. The two victories placed those teams in a tie for second place in the American League.

GROSSMANN IIB won its second game of the season by defeating Grossmann Basement 76-61.

Basketball playoffs, which were originally scheduled for next week, will be held on March 5 and 7. Games that were postponed January 8 will be played next Thursday, and those postponed on February 4 will be played Monday, March 4.

If necessary, playoffs to determine first place in league play will be held March 5. The final playoff between top teams in each league will be March 7. The full court will be used in that game.

Iowa Wesleyan Upset; Sports May Be Dropped

By Doug Goke

Should Intercollegiate athletics be continued at the small college level? This is not a pertinent question here at Wartburg, but it certainly has been making the news in one of our rival Iowa Conference schools.

Iowa Wesleyan is experiencing a real shakeup over this very problem. Figures have been quoted on the cost of their maintaining an athletic program. Some of the top officials of this school can see neither how nor why an athletic program should be carried on in years to come if the cost of the program is so high.

Just how does Wartburg stand in comparison to the figures quoted by an official at Iowa Wesleyan? A rough figure of forty thousand dollars was quoted as an estimate of the yearly athletic costs, without consideration for the maintenance of facilities or salaries of the coaches.

In 1960-61, Wartburg paid out $19,253 for its athletic program. The income from gate receipts was $6,386. However, the total income from athletic contests was $18,233.

The difference of $11,847 was accounted for, in part, by the student and faculty purchase of student activity tickets and the guarantees from games played away from home. (This does not mean that all the money paid for activity tickets went to the athletic fund.)

In 1961-62, the total spent for athletics here at Wartburg was $18,660 and the total income was $17,033, the gate receipts being only $4,895. Perhaps the drop is due to the fact that we had no championship basketball or football team last year.

In 1960-61, there was a loss of $1,020 and in 61-62 there was a loss of $1,627. In the bookkeeping system at Wartburg, the losses and profits are carried over from year to year; and so, even though the last two years showed a loss, the years preceding 1960 showed a profit. Thereby, the losses are evened out by the profits.

Also stated was that last year Iowa Wesleyan gave $18,660 in grants to attract athletes to the school. This was unrecieved tuition money, not cash handed out. Wartburg's grant-in-aid and tuition scholarships total only $9,300.

This is broken up with approximately forty men dividing $6,100 in grants-in-aid and eight men dividing five full tuition scholarships. Last year, the Board of Regents voted to allow three full-tuition scholarships for the year '61-62.

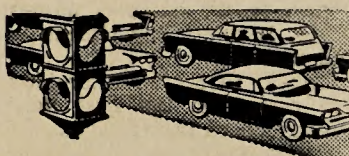

Regents also voted that every year following, the number of full tuition scholarships would be increased by three until a maximum of 12 would be reached. It would remain at the maximum of 12 until voted differently. Tuition scholarships are based on a definite need by the individual and also his athletic ability.

So if Iowa Wesleyan is right in saying that it is near the bottom for giving aid to its athletes, then Wartburg is really down at the bottom, for we give less than half of what Wesleyan offers its incoming athletes.

Just what would a college be like without intercollegiate athletics? We could ask Dubuque, as it is the only school in the Iowa Conference that has tried to drop the athletic program. Dubuque went without athletics from 1925 until 1928 when they were taken up again.

I think that many of us would have to admit that a great deal would be lost in college life if athletics would be dropped.

Convo To Feature Drama

Drama and a liturgical service will be the highlights of the convocations next Tuesday and Thursday.

For Tuesday's convocation, the one-act play, "Cain," by Howard Nemerov, will be presented.

BASED ON THE Biblical version in Genesis, the drama will present the story from a different angle. Abel will be portrayed as an antagonist and goader of his brother Cain, and one who is rejected by his family. This rejection is by reason of God's will.

Upon hearing the voice of God, Cain has the inspiration that he must do as his will desires—to kill Abel—because it is right to do what his will tells him to do.

As the play ends, Cain leaves and Adam and Eve are left standing alone in the garden.

MEMBERS OF THE cast will be Dave Hutson, sophomore, as Cain; Dennis Brown, freshman, as Abel; senior Kay Knopf as Eve; and John Gill, drama director, as Adam.

John Ness of the Speech Department will be heard as the voice of God. Pastor Herman Diers will make brief introductory remarks before the play is presented.

Written in a modern style, there will be a minimum amount of scenery on the stage. It will be student directed by juniors Evan Bartelt and Orv Mc Elfresh.

The course, to be numbered 104, will replace one section of the present orientation program, numbered 102. It will be designed for students who wish to correct a deficiency shown by the physical fitness test given in the first semester.

The class is to be geared to the individual. There will be some team sports along with individual exercises. It is to be adaptable to the needs of each person with a possibility of more than one instructor.

According to physical education director Dave Olson, the course is to be individualized so that those people with special physical problems can participate more effectively in activities which will be beneficial later in life.

She will replace Miss Nancy Mista who will be on a leave of absence to do work toward her Ph.D. at State University of Iowa, Iowa City.

Miss Meyer has her B.A. from State College of Iowa and will complete work toward a M.A. at Colorado State College, Greeley, Colo., this summer.

She has taught at the Newton Community School for the last five years. Presently she is state chairman of the Division of Girls' and Women's Sports of the Iowa Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Pennies Make Dollars

Pennies mounted and pocket-books drained as Wartburg Knights and their ladies celebrated "Penny Night" last Friday evening. For the small fee of one cent per minute the girls were allowed to stay out an hour past the regular 12 midnight curfew.

The women netted 4,050 late minutes at a total cost of approximately $40.50. This money will go into the Women's Judiciary Council fund and may be used for a future all-women project, according to Doreen Davidson, president of the WJC.

It is expected that at least one more "Penny Night" will be held later on in the year.

Waverly Gets Dial Phones

A three-second conversion from an old to a new office during the night, March 2 and 3, will conclude two years' efforts in the installation of Waverly's new direct-distance dial telephone system.

According to E. L. Simpson, Waverly manager for the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, a dedication dinner will be held at Carver's restaurant Feb. 27 in recognition of the event. Mayor Fred Gaylor will dial the first local call.

DR. C. H. BECKER, president of Wartburg, and Dick Buchsteiner, student body president, will be representative guests from Wartburg.

The new office will enable direct connection with 80 million other phones in the United States. Equipment registered at 280 tons and a cost of $1,035,000 was installed.

MATERIALS explaining the new system and procedures to be followed will be issued to students in the immediate future. Instructional film sessions will also be held as soon as possible.

According to Dean of Students Earnest Oppermann, Wartburg students will continue under the honor system in the use of campus phones. Students will continue using pay phones for long distance calls.

The Wartburg exchange will maintain its present dial system. Students making off-campus local calls will obtain an outside line through the Wartburg exchange and dial their party with the seven digit number of the new system.

College To Print New Publication

A new publication has been born at Wartburg College, according to Duane Schroeder, news director.

Called the "Wartburg Review," it will be edited by Schroeder.

The "Review" will be published monthly, replacing the "Wartburg Bulletin" which was published bi-monthly.

Reason for the change, according to Schroeder, was that the monthly nature of the new paper will make it more a news sheet than was the "Bulletin." It is also expected to be cheaper in both time and money since it is being printed on a new offset press.
